Hot Topics in Neonatology

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

On behalf of the Organizing Committee, we are pleased to welcome you to the 2018 Annual Conference of the Swiss Society of Neonatology in Berne.

Inspired by the success of the past events, we have strived to organize the upcoming conference entitled Hot Topics in Neonatology intending to update all professionals taking care of newborn infants.

We will focus on two main topics:

- 1) Pros and cons of new, less invasive respiratory support strategies such as high flow nasal canula and less invasive surfactant administration
- 2) Use of stem cell therapy in perinatology

The purpose of this conference is to launch the discussion between clinicians, key experts and internationally reknown speakers.

The organizing committee welcomes young pediatricians and neonatologists as well as nurses, midwives and obstetricians to actively participate by presenting their research. This conference is a great opportunity to create or extend your network among colleagues of the Swiss community and to get involved in scientific discussions and projects.

In this spirit, we invite you to participate and make this annual meeting – once again – a successful, fruitful and stimulating experience in a friendly setting.

Please be sure to submit your abstract prior to October 31, 2017 and indicate your preferred mode of presentation (oral or poster).
