
NEO4NEO²

Bigorio (Ticino) May 11–14, 2022

Objectives

This course aims particularly those participants who wish to expand their knowledge in the field of perinatal medicine, in respiratory support and in leadership. Like the two other courses, this seminar offers state-of-the-art interactive teaching on key topics. Teaching will be evidence based, clinically and practically oriented, and more importantly, will be inspiring.

For all neo4neo courses, establishing a close relationship between trainers and trainees remains an important focus. As such, it may spin off future clinical and scientific collaboration in the field of perinatal medicine in Switzerland.

Expectations of Participants

- Each participant is expected to attend the course from the beginning Wednesday evening to the end, Saturday around 14h. Please do not enroll if you cannot attend the full course!
- Each participant is expected to summarize one half-day session for all other participants. Participants are welcome to present research work they are planning or already conducting (20' time inclusive questions and discussion; as slides, on flip chart).
- For the 2 1/2 days in a retreat, team spirit and active participation are expected for the teaching sessions. Each participant is also expected to contribute to the social happening after work that could include slides, music, games, stories etc.
